The function of education is to create human beings who are therefore intelligent. We may take degrees and be mechanically efficient without being intelligent. Intelligence is not mere information, it is not derived from books, nor does it consist of clever self-defensive responses and aggressive assertions. One who has not studied may be more intelligent than the learned. We have made examinations and degrees the criterion of intelligence and have developed cunning minds that avoid vital human issues. Intelligence is the capacity to perceive the essentials, the what is; and to awaken this capacity, in oneself and in others is education.
